

Information for Meeting Organizers

Dr. Dorothy Marcic

---

Dr. Marcic's needs for presentations:

- Lavalier/lapel microphone or headset mike
- Good sound system suitable for music
- Patch from PC laptop sound (via miniplug) to the sound system
- An LCD projector to connect to a PC laptop using an A/V cable for the PowerPoint presentation
- Sometimes a videoplayer and monitor or screen (please check to see if one is needed for your presentation)—not needed for Musical History of Women.
- Hat rack for hanging costumes (not the kind with hangers)
- Accessories table
- Four glasses of room-temperature water on the accessories table
- Two LARGE cups or mugs with warm tea and 6-8 lemon slices in each

Also required:

- A professional AV/sound person who will set up the system and be available during the presentation
- All equipment (except laptop) set up and ready for laptop hookup 90 minutes before presentation
- A sound check with AV/sound person present BEFORE any participants enter the room
- Someone to staff the table where books and tapes will be sold.

Introducing Dr. Marcic

Dorothy Marcic is a faculty member at Vanderbilt University. She lived in Prague for four years, where she was a Fulbright Scholar at the University of Economics - Prague, teaching MBA students and practicing managers.

During the past 25 years, Dorothy has conducted over 900 highly-rated seminars on many topics and has done consulting for executives at AT& T Bell Labs; the Governor and Cabinet of North Dakota; the U.S. Department of State; and Hallmark Corporation. She has worked with health care organizations in the U.S. and Latin America and was a professor in Health Administration. While in Europe she served as advisor to the U.S. Ambassador of the Czech Republic and was a delegate to the United Nations Economic and Social Development Summit in Copenhagen.

Dorothy's research and consulting interests currently are on how to develop the kinds of structures, values and systems that help create the New Workplace. Addressing that issue is the focus of one of the ten books she has authored—Managing With the Wisdom of Love: Uncovering Virtue in Organizations, which was selected as one of 1997's top ten management books. Her most recent book, RESPECT: Women and Popular Music, describes the empowerment of women, as seen through the eyes of popular music.

Dorothy loves working in the media and has done two weekly radio programs on public radio, as well as being a production assistant, many years ago, on the TV program, Mister Rogers Neighborhood.

When she is not working or writing, Dorothy spends time with her husband Dick Daft, their five daughters, or singing songs that soothe her soul.

After the presentation, some of Dorothy's books and CDs will be available. If you want to continue the experience you will have today (or tonight, as appropriate to the time of day), take a look at the books and CDs.

---

At the end: Don't forget to check on the table for Dr. Marcic's books and CDs, which will help you relive this experience.